Alsancak Group's Grievance and Remedy Policy

1. Purpose and Philosophical Framework:

The purpose of Alsancak's Grievance Policy is to establish a robust, transparent, and accessible mechanism through which grievances can be raised, examined, and resolved in a fair and accountable manner. At Alsancak Group, we recognize that security operations—particularly in complex and high-risk environments—carry not only operational responsibilities but also profound human implications. Every action taken in both Area of Interest and Area of Responsibility has the potential to affect the dignity, safety, and rights of individuals and communities.

Therefore, ethical conduct is not regarded merely as a regulatory obligation but as a core organizational value that underpins all aspects of our operations. We are committed to fostering a culture in which concerns can be voiced without fear, where every report is treated with seriousness and respect, and where accountability is both a principle and a practice.

This policy reflects our firm commitment to upholding the highest standards of integrity, professionalism, and respect for human rights. Any deviation from the Company's Code of Conduct, applicable international humanitarian law, or recognized human rights principles will be addressed promptly, impartially, and transparently.

Beyond compliance, this framework is designed to reinforce trust—both within our organization and among the communities and partners we serve. By ensuring that all grievances are handled with sensitivity, fairness, and diligence, Alsancak Group seeks not only to prevent misconduct but also to continuously strengthen its ethical foundations and operational legitimacy in every environment in which it operates.

2. Scope of Application:

Alsancak's Grievance Policy applies comprehensively and with no exception to all individuals operating under the authority of Alsancak Group, including employees, subcontractors, and consultants, regardless of their role, function, or location. Every member of the organization shares a collective responsibility to uphold the principles set forth in this framework and to contribute to a culture of accountability, integrity, and respect.

Recognizing that our operations extend beyond internal structures, this policy also encompasses all external stakeholders who may be directly or indirectly affected by our activities. This includes clients, partners, suppliers, and, critically, local communities within our areas of operation. Alsancak Group acknowledges that its presence and actions can have tangible social and human impacts, particularly in sensitive and high-risk environments.

Accordingly, this framework ensures that any individual or group—whether within or outside the organization—has the right and the means to raise concerns, report grievances, and seek redress in a safe, respectful, and accessible manner. By extending the scope in this way, the Company reinforces its commitment to inclusivity, transparency, and the protection of human dignity across all operational contexts.

3. Core Principles of the Grievance Mechanism:

When you cover up certain things, you might feel like you've achieved success momentarily or quickly. However, things that are covered up soon start to smell bad, putting you and your company in a difficult position. In short, the truth has a way of coming out sooner or later. Therefore, Alsancak has adopted honesty as the best policy.

To maintain operational integrity and ensure full alignment with international best practices, Alsancak Group's grievance mechanism is built upon a set of core principles that collectively safeguard fairness, accountability, and trust. These principles are designed not only to regulate procedures, but also to shape a company culture in which individuals feel safe, respected, and empowered to raise concerns without hesitation. At the heart of this framework lies a commitment to protecting those who speak up, preserving the confidentiality and dignity of all parties involved, and ensuring that every allegation is assessed objectively and without bias.

The mechanism prioritizes timely and impartial investigations, free from conflicts of interest, while remaining accessible to all stakeholders regardless of their role, background, or location. By embedding these principles into every stage of the grievance process, Alsancak Group seeks to create a system that is both credible and humane—one that reinforces ethical conduct, strengthens institutional transparency, and upholds the fundamental rights of individuals in all operational environments.

Non-Retaliation: Alsancak Group enforces a strict and unequivocal non-retaliation policy as a cornerstone of its ethical framework. The Company recognizes that individuals who come forward to report concerns—whether as witnesses or whistleblowers—often do so under challenging circumstances, and their willingness to speak up is essential to maintaining integrity and accountability. Accordingly, any person who, in good faith, reports suspected misconduct, unethical behavior, or violations of applicable laws and standards is fully protected from all forms of retaliation.

This protection extends to any direct or indirect adverse action, including dismissal, demotion, harassment, discrimination, intimidation, or any other form of professional or personal disadvantage. The Company is committed to fostering an environment in which individuals feel safe, respected, and supported when raising concerns, without fear of negative consequences. Any act of retaliation will be treated as a serious violation of Company policy and will be subject to immediate disciplinary action.

By upholding this principle, Alsancak Group not only protects individuals but also reinforces a culture of trust, transparency, and ethical responsibility across all levels of its operations.

Confidentiality and Privacy: Alsancak Group is firmly committed to safeguarding the confidentiality and privacy of all individuals involved in the grievance process. The Company recognizes that the protection of sensitive information is essential not only for the integrity of investigations, but also for preserving the dignity, security, and trust of those who come forward with concerns. Accordingly, all information related to grievances—including the identity of reporters, witnesses, and subjects of investigation—is handled with the highest level of discretion.

Every member of the administrative and investigative team bears a direct responsibility to ensure that confidential information is accessed strictly on a need-to-know basis and is protected against unauthorized disclosure. Measures are implemented to securely store, process, and manage all records in accordance with applicable legal and professional standards.

The Company is equally mindful of the potential risks that may arise from breaches of confidentiality, particularly in sensitive operational environments. Therefore, any unauthorized disclosure or misuse of information will be treated as a serious violation of Company policy and may result in disciplinary or legal action. Through this approach, Alsancak Group seeks to create a safe and respectful environment in which individuals can raise concerns with confidence, knowing that their privacy will be protected at every stage of the process.

Impartiality: Investigations into conduct will be conducted swiftly and impartially by personnel with no direct conflict of interest. Accessibility: Grievance procedures are designed to be fair, effective, and accessible in accordance with ICoCA guidelines.

4. Categorization of Reportable Grievances:

Personnel and stakeholders are encouraged to report any suspected or actual violations, including but not limited to:

Abuse of Force: Any use of firearms or force that is not strictly necessary, proportionate, or compliant with the Rules for the Use of Force (RUF).

Human Rights Violations: Acts involving torture, cruel or inhuman treatment, or the apprehension of persons without strict necessity.

Sexual Exploitation and Abuse (SEA): Any form of sexual harassment, coercion, or violence, which must be handled according to the UN's Six Core Principles.

Financial Misconduct: Soliciting or accepting bribes, kick-backs, or engaging in unauthorized business dealings.

Safety Negligence: Misconduct that threatens the health and safety of co-workers or civilians.

5. Procedural Workflow for Grievance Redressal

Phase I: Submission and Reporting

Grievances may be submitted through formal internal reporting channels. Incident reporting is a fundamental requirement and must include the time, location, identities involved, and a detailed sequence of events.

Phase II: Investigation and Cooperation:

Upon receipt of a grievance, Alsancak Group will initiate a formal inquiry. The Company is committed to full cooperation with legitimate monitoring entities, including the International Code of Conduct Association (ICoCA) and authorized external agencies.

Phase III: Remediation and Disciplinary Action:

If an investigation confirms an ethical or legal breach, Violations will result in immediate disciplinary action, which may include termination of employment. Serious criminal acts will be referred to competent legal authorities and government criminal record registries. The Company reserves the right to seek legal consequences under the applicable jurisdiction.
